JOSSELYN GOOSEBERRY.

A Magnificent Success. It Has No Rival.

From the National Nurseryman: Dec. 1899.

"There being in existence an inferior English Gooseberry, (some of which are in America), which is named Red Jacket, the Committee on Nomenclature of Western New York Horticultural Society, at Rochester, January 25th, 1899, to hereafter prevent confusion in varieties, renamed the American Red Jacket, "Josselyn" in honor of the introducer.

The above being the case the right name for our gooseberry now is Josselyn as when we named this gooseberry Red Jacket we were not aware that there was another [English] gooseberry which was named Red Jacket long before ours was originated so of course, even if an inferior kind, the older plant has the right exclusively to its original name. Numerous leading Nurserymen have written us stating that the above change in name is right and entirely satisfactory. As far as we are concerned we find that the change in name has been of great benefit to us, as although our plantings of this variety are large, we have as yet not succeeded in growing enough of them for the demand and from all we can learn this variety for above reasons is not selling at all well under the old name.

Heretofore we have had considerable extra correspondence on account of the two plants with one name. This takes time and I hope the above will be satisfactory to our customers and that it will obviate with us further correspondence on this branch of the subject.

FOUR-PAGE CIRCULARS.

We offer, on condition that those who use these circulars buy from us their supply of Campbell's Early Vines, which they need to fill orders for each delivery after using these circulars, new four-page circulars of Campbell's Early Grape, printed with our new cut (cost $50.) with your name and address in two inch space at bottom of fourth page, at the actual cost of paper and printing, viz:

500 for $1.00, 1000 for $1.75, 2000 for $3.25,
5000 for $7.50, 10,000 for $14.00.

We will also furnish without charge one colored plate for each plate book, on condition that those who receive these plates buy their stock of Campbell's Early of us while using our plates.

Prices and conditions for four page Josselyn Gooseberry circulars and plates same as for Campbell's Early.

CAMPBELL'S EARLY GRAPE.

Campbell's Early vines are now being bought in large lots by careful, wide awake vineyardists who want a grape which will hang on the vines, will not crack and which will keep and can be marketed at advantageous times instead of having to be forced on the market on some special day to avoid cracking and shelling. These vineyardists want a grape which will bring profitable returns instead of possible losses and which will fill the bill for people who are able and willing to pay a better price for something better in quality than the common kinds of grapes. As more than one third of the people do not and will not swallow grape seeds here is another gap which Campbell's Early fills. The fruit of Campbell's Early in our own vineyard has hung on the vines sound and perfect for more than TEN WEEKS after ripening, which fact was observed by numerous vineyardists in our neighborhood. As a good keeper and shipper it is believed to be unequalled by any other grape. Its early ripening is at same time with Moore's Early and at that time the quality of Campbell's Early is fully as good as Moore's Early. After that time the quality of Campbell's Early steadily improves for from two to six weeks, so its season is not only very early but is also medium and late. In short you can pick them from early to late as you choose. Moore's Early, Worden, Concord, etc. will not stay on the vines in this way. Campbell's Early, with us, bears about three times the amount of fruit as does Moore's Early. Moore's Early, especially during first few years of fruiting, is proverbially a shy bearer, but Campbell's Early is inclined to overbear, so when this occurs the blossoms (or fruit when small) should be thinned or the vines and fruit will probably suffer in following year.

A grape that will succeed in Massachusetts will do likewise in the Middle, Western and other New England States. Read the following report from

MASSACHUSETTS AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE,

March, 1900. Bulletin No. 66, page 7.

GRAPE—164 varieties growing; 110 fruited in 1899.

The varieties giving the most satisfaction were the Concord, Worden, Winchell and Delaware of the older sorts, while of the newer well tested kinds, Campbell's Early is the only one that can be strongly recommended for general cultivation in Massachusetts.

The special merits of this variety are that it ripens from a week to ten days earlier than the Concord (as early as Moore's Early), the vine is vigorous and productive, the fruit is large and showy, the skin tough, pulp rather firm and sweet, but the seeds separate readily and it hangs long on the vine without dropping. Unless it develops some weakness not yet noticed, it should be grown extensively in Massachusetts in place of Concord, Worden or any other black grape now grown.

CAMPBELL'S EARLY GRAPE.

This grape has taken First Premiums and Medals too numerous to mention and when placed in competition with other varieties, and properly scored, there isn't another black grape in America which can stay in its company.

It has come to our certain knowledge that small greenhouse vines and small out of door vines are being sold at low prices for first class Campbell's Early vines. The planters of such vines will be obliged to wait about two years (and consequently lose that amount of time) before they will be as large as our 1 yr. No. 1 Campbell's Early Vines.

All our Campbell's Early Vines have been grown out of doors, are graded as large as any variety that we grow and are the handsomest vines we are shipping this season.

Terms and discounts as per eighth page for other stock on this list.

Positively no buds or wood of this variety for sale.

Our wholesale prices are viz:
